Denmead Striders

March 2018

Kirsty's World Record attempt

Kirsty will be attempting a World Record at the London Marathon by running the fastest marathon dressed as a Cavewoman!

As you may know she has been lucky enough to run the London Marathon on a few occasions before, but 2018 is an extra special London Marathon for her.

Not only will it be her last marathon as 'Miss Bailey' (!!!) but she will also be attempting to break a Guinness World Record by running the marathon dressed as a cave woman!

You might think that is an easy challenge until you discover that she has to run with a club that weighs 1kg for 26.2 miles! That's equivalent to running with a bag of sugar in her hand.

So given that it is extraordinary marathon, She has decided to raise money for Stubbington Ark - a separately registered branch of the RSPCA covering Portsmouth and Southampton, providing care and rehoming for all manner of animals.

If you would like to sponsor Kirsty then please use the link below or find Kirsty at training:

Q & A with Liz Steward

What made you join the Striders?

A work friend encouraged me along, and then left! It was on my commute path, so convenient. The training was a fresh take on running which I had always treated more casually. It was great to get pushed. I dropped in a couple of times a year to begin with! On hearing of the HRR from Sally Rowe, I signed up and joined properly (Autumn 2015), and have loved the racing, training and welcoming friendly crew.

What inspired you to start running?

Leaving school and realising there was no more xcountry adventures! I enjoyed running at school. I became a casual runner to keep myself slightly healthy, and I enjoyed it. I ran on trail mostly, and remember counting rabbits in the spring! For 12+ years I ran without a watch.

Now I clock all the miles instead of rabbits!! Haha. I always just liked running!

My younger sister ran London marathon years before me. She inspired me to go long.

What's your favourite distance and why?

Marathon. It's a classic distance. Memories of London marathon on the tele as a child, it was special and inspiring. The 2016 Olympics I loved the women's marathon, I ran after to match their run time and managed 17 miles.

It is also a distance that brings so many more adventures in, within the event and the lead up to it!

Cross country or road?

Cross country or trails for relaxing fun. Road racing for the challenge. General training is mostly road, as its more accessible for me.

Summer/winter training?

Winter for running, and gearing towards spring marathons. Summer for cycling and marathon recovery! If I am not injured I will train all year. Runnings a ritual I don't go long without, all being well.

Favourite club session?

Hills, love working hard on the up. And recovering on the down. And being motivated seeing everyone else do it! Strength training I believe.

Any club inspirations and why?

Too many to mention. 100miler Matt Cheyney and his follow up at Hayling Billy 5 days later was impressive. Julian Manning's persistent speed that drags us all along! Julia Revel's 208 marathons (maybe more now)!. Lee Weeks legendary run of curry's.

Gary Edmonds, and his inspiring Munroe bagging, I fancy that Scottish adventure... all that hill training!

So many, it's a special club, including the coaches, are so dedicated to the training, it helps hugely. The club has great peer support and everyone celebrates each other's efforts. And most importantly some people keep the club ticking! All who turn up are inspiring, whatever the level of running. Sometimes I turn up just to see a friendly face. However the session goes I'm always glad of it! But I love having the races booked to keep my focus on too.

Any pre run/race superstitions or prep?

Pasta on the lead up to big ones. Lots of hydration day or two before big event. Couple of pints of liquid in the morning. Keep calm, remember why I'm running, life's meant to be fun, and carry on!

Porridge on the morning of a long one, 2+hours in advance. With dates, and an apple or banana. black coffee pre-race too if I'm lucky.

I don't eat before long training runs generally, get up, get out and get it done!

Favourite medal?

Eastbourne Track Marathon. It was a bizarre event I was surprised to take part in. 105 laps of a track is quite a surreal experience. But one I would recommend. It makes me laugh a bit that one. And it was my PB marathon. As with all these events, they make for a fine day out!
